

Rhonda has been involved in the art of dance since the age of three. She studied tap, jazz, ballet, voice and acrobatics with well known educators such as Sylvia Grey, Patsy Swayze, Maxine Asbury, Al Gilbert, the highly acclaimed Bo Wagner, and Vladimir Marek among many others.

Before moving to Fredericksburg 28 years ago, she served as principal instructor, choreographer, and performer with the Southwest Jazz Ballet Company in Houston, Texas. She also owned and operated her own very successful studio with over 800 students in Houston for 15 years. Her students then and now attain top honors and awards in regional as well as national competitions and conventions!

In addition to teaching at Ms. Rhonda's School of Dance in Fredericksburg and in Mason, Rhonda also teaches tap and choreographs for studios all over Texas and the surrounding areas. Her love of dance transfers into theatre as well. She has loved working closely with the Fredericksburg Theatre Company, choreographing numbers in numerous shows including Peter Pan, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Annie Get Your Gun, Fiddler On The Roof, Beauty and The Beast, The Music Man, Christmas At the Theatre among many others. Ms. Rhonda feels so very lucky to wake up everyday and spend time doing what she loves, sharing the joy of dance with such wonderful students and parents. She feels truly blessed to be a part of this very talented community with such amazing people.
